I would like to apologize that I'm not able to write this in Norwegian, but feel that this issue is so important that I would like to use the opportunity to make my views known anyhow. Feel free to respond in Norwegian.

I feel that it is fundamentally wrong to give fastlegene an option about which patients they want to treat (even if the patient requests a perfectly legal procedure). This must outweigh all other considerations and a government that implements this option has lost all moral rights to call itself liberal.
